

About Toshio's Teriyaki

The Owners

My husband (James Wang) and I (Yoko Wang) have been in the restaurant business for more than 30 years. We started with Grand Restaurant in Vancouver, B. C. Canada, then, we operated Shanghai Restaurant in Bellevue, Washington, for 15 years. From there, Szechuan Express in Reno, Nevada, for 3 years, Kiku Tempura House in Seattle, WA for 3 years, and lastly Toshio's Teriyaki in Seattle, for 10 years. In order to continue the restaurant business for so long, which requires a lot of patience and efforts, we have kept the following mottoes:

1. To give glory to God through this restaurant.
2. To work as an ambassador of God.

Our Faith

God is very faithful. He has sent us a lot of people with whom we could share our testimonies, we could lay our hands on for healing, we could lead to salvation, we could deliver from addiction. If we experience God's miracle working power even once a day, our physical fatigue disappears instantly. We feel joy in working every day. This is the secret we are successfully continuing in our restaurant business.

Our Beginnings

By God's leading, we came back from Reno to Bellevue in 1997. During this transition period, God put the word "teriyaki" into my husband's spirit. As soon as we arrived in Bellevue, he started to look for a teriyaki restaurant on the market. He spotted Toshio's Teriyaki. We contacted the owners, but we found out they didn't want to sell. Therefore, we bought Kiku Tempura House instead. We operated it for 3 years. Again by God's leading, we sold it in
